

Method for the production of ketocarotenoids in petals of plants

Abstract

5

The present invention relates to a method for the production of ketocarotenoids by culturing plants which show a modified ketolase activity in petals in comparison with the wild type, to the genetically modified plants, to their use as foodstuffs and 10 feedstuffs, and for the production of ketocarotenoid extracts.

15

20

25

30

35

40

45